

Wei-Cheng Che is the Director of Respiratory Intensive Care Medicine at China Medical University Hospital (CMUH), Taiwan. Dr. Chen received his medical degree from the Kaohsiung Medical University School of Medicine. He came to CMUH for residency in Internal Medicine and stayed to complete his chief residency and Pulmonary/Critical Care Medicine fellowship. His work focused on the implementation of lung protective strategy on acute respiratory distress syndrome. He is under the research training with Professor Min-Chi Lu on multiple-drug resistant Enterobacteriales.

■ Education

2002-2009	Kaohsiung Medical University	School of Medicine
2020-present	China Medical University	Doctoral program, Gradual Institute of biomedical sciences

■ Post-gradual Training and Position

2010-2013	China Medical University Hospital	Residency Department of Internal Medicine
2013-2015	China Medical University Hospital	Fellowship Division of Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine
2015-present	China Medical University Hospital	Attending physician Division of Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine
2020-present	China Medical University Hospital	Director Respiratory intensive care unit

■ Board Certification

2013	Society of Internal Medicine, R.O.C.	No. 10021
2015	Association of Hyperbaric and Undersea Medicine, R.O.C.	No. 460
2015	Taiwan Society of Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine	No. 1349
2016	Taiwan Lung Cancer Society	No. 222
2017	Specialist of Critical Care Medicine	No. 2967

■ Award

2012	Elite Resident of China Medical University Hospital
2013	Excellent Teaching Resident of China Medical University Hospital
2016	Young Investigator Award of Taiwan Society of Pulmonary and Critical

Care Medicine

- 2017 Excellent Teaching Physician of China Medical University Hospital
- 2020 Elite Physician of China Medical University Hospital
- 2020 Quality and Patient Safety Improvement Announcement of China Medical University Hospital
- 2021 Holistic Health Care and Interprofessional Education Competition of China Medical University Hospital
- 2021 National Healthcare Quality Award- Quality Improvement Project. Wei-Cheng Chen, Tung-Mei Chen, et al. Using Healthcare Failure Model and Effect Analysis (HFMEA) to Establish an Instrument Alarm Management System.
